Innovation and Technology Deliver Success

Innovation has long been at the heart of Sotheby’s Wine but never has it been quite so critical to our business as it has been over the past few months. As Covid-19 swept across the globe we have adapted and adjusted, transitioning our business online and embracing the endless possibilities that technology and the digital age have to offer.

“Sotheby’s said more than 30% of its clientele is now millennials—and their exuberant bidding during the lockdown helped push the house’s online sales to $285 million, tripling its online total for all last year.”

- WALL STREET JOURNAL

“Hats off to Sotheby’s for being the first to test out a digital-only, live-stream auction for the highest-priced art — and for passing with flying colours. At the start of its June 29 sale, auctioneer Oliver Barker, standing in front of several screens from mission control in London, announced that ‘The auction of the future is here.’ Unusually for an auction house, this wasn’t too much of an exaggeration.”

- THE ART NEWSPAPER

“There were encouraging signs for Sotheby’s that it is attracting new, younger customers. More than 30 percent of bidders and buyers had not transacted with the auctioneer before and a similar proportion were aged under 40, it said, with interest shown in areas including luxury watches, wine and art.”

- THE TIMES

“The marathon 74-lot auction at Sotheby’s, which replaced the postponed May evening sales in New York, used the latest technology to try breathing life back into the pandemic-numbed top end of the international art market.”

Burgundy and Spirits continue to reign supreme. Spirits increased it’s market share from 13% last year to 18%. We have broken out Scotch & Japanese Whisky to better illustrate the market. Bordeaux continues it’s decline in percentage sale to the lowest level we have seen.

Auction sales only
“Sotheby’s is anticipating increased bidding and seeing significant interest from buyers who are new to Sotheby’s... We believe that the market remains strong for both wines and whisky, at all price levels, as people have time at home to focus on what is available and the appetite to buy for current drinking or special occasions, which will be even more treasured.”

- JAMIE RITCHIE FOR FOOD AND WINE

“The digital transformation in the wine and spirits business has been accelerated by 5 to 10 years, as everyone realizes that innovation, automation, simplicity and empowering clients is the future. While we will continue to offer live auctions, our transfer to online auctions will continue and the digital platform is the platform of the future.”
